SCOTT S.,<sup>1</sup>

Plaintiff,

vs.

ANDREW M. SAUL,

SECURITY,

ORDER DENYING PLAINTIFF'S
MOTION FOR SUMMARY
JUDGMENT AND GRANTING DEFENDANT'S MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT

ECF Nos. 14, 15

Before the Court are the parties' cross-motions for summary judgment. ECF Nos. 14, 15. The parties consented to proceed before a magistrate judge. ECF No. 7. The Court, having reviewed the administrative record and the parties' briefing,

1 is fully informed. For the reasons discussed below, the Court denies Plaintiff's 2 motion, ECF No. 14, and grants Defendant's motion, ECF No. 15.

3 JURISDICTION

4 The Court has jurisdiction over this case pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 405(g).

5 STANDARD OF REVIEW

6 A district court's review of a final decision of the Commissioner of Social 7 Security is governed by 42 U.S.C. § 405(g). The scope of review under § 405(g) is 8 limited; the Commissioner's decision will be disturbed "only if it is not supported 9 by substantial evidence or is based on legal error." Hill v. Astrue, 698 F.3d 1153, 10 1158 (9th Cir. 2012). "Substantial evidence" means "relevant evidence that a 11 reasonable mind might accept as adequate to support a conclusion." Id. at 1159 12 (quotation and citation omitted). Stated differently, substantial evidence equates to 13 "more than a mere scintilla[,] but less than a preponderance." Id. (quotation and 14 citation omitted). In determining whether the standard has been satisfied, a 15 reviewing court must consider the entire record as a whole rather than searching 16 for supporting evidence in isolation. Id.

17 In reviewing a denial of benefits, a district court may not substitute its 18 judgment for that of the Commissioner. Edlund v. Massanari, 253 F.3d 1152, 19 1156 (9th Cir. 2001). If the evidence in the record "is susceptible to more than one 20 rational interpretation, [the court] must uphold the ALJ's findings if they are

1 supported by inferences reasonably drawn from the record.” Molina v. Astrue, 674 2 F.3d 1104, 1111 (9th Cir. 2012). Further, a district court “may not reverse an 3 ALJ’s decision on account of an error that is harmless.” Id. An error is harmless
4 “where it is inconsequential to the [ALJ’s] ultimate nondisability determination.”
5 Id. at 1115 (quotation and citation omitted). The party appealing the ALJ’s 6 decision generally bears the burden of establishing that it was harmed. Shinseki v.
7 Sanders, 556 U.S. 396, 409-10 (2009).

8 FIVE-STEP EVALUATION PROCESS

9 A claimant must satisfy two conditions to be considered “disabled” within 10 the meaning of the Social Security Act. First, the claimant must be “unable to 11 engage in any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable 12 physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or which 13 has lasted or can be expected to last for a continuous period of not less than twelve 14 months.” 42 U.S.C. § 423(d)(1)(A). Second, the claimant’s impairment must be 15 “of such severity that he is not only unable to do his previous work[,] but cannot, 16 considering his age, education, and work experience, engage in any other kind of 17 substantial gainful work which exists in the national economy.” 42 U.S.C. § 18 423(d)(2)(A).

19 The Commissioner has established a five-step sequential analysis to 20 determine whether a claimant satisfies the above criteria. See 20 C.F.R. §

1 404.1520(a)(4)(i)-(v). At step one, the Commissioner considers the claimant's 2 work activity. 20 C.F.R. § 404.1520(a)(4)(i). If the claimant is engaged in 3 "substantial gainful activity," the Commissioner must find that the claimant is not 4 disabled. 20 C.F.R. § 404.1520(b).

5 If the claimant is not engaged in substantial gainful activity, the analysis 6 proceeds to step two. At this step, the Commissioner considers the severity of the 7 claimant's impairment. 20 C.F.R. § 404.1520(a)(4)(ii). If the claimant suffers 8 from "any impairment or combination of impairments which significantly limits 9 [his or her] physical or mental ability to do basic work activities," the analysis 10 proceeds to step three. 20 C.F.R. § 404.1520(c). If the claimant's impairment 11 does not satisfy this severity threshold, however, the Commissioner must find that 12 the claimant is not disabled. 20 C.F.R. § 404.1520(c).

13 At step three, the Commissioner compares the claimant's impairment to 14 severe impairments recognized by the Commissioner to be so severe as to preclude 15 a person from engaging in substantial gainful activity. 20 C.F.R. § 16 404.1520(a)(4)(iii). If the impairment is as severe or more severe than one of the 17 enumerated impairments, the Commissioner must find the claimant disabled and 18 award benefits. 20 C.F.R. § 404.1520(d).

19 If the severity of the claimant's impairment does not meet or exceed the 20 severity of the enumerated impairments, the Commissioner must pause to assess

1 the claimant's "residual functional capacity." Residual functional capacity (RFC), 2 defined generally as the claimant's ability to perform physical and mental work
3 activities on a sustained basis despite his or her limitations, 20 C.F.R. § 4 404.1545(a)(1), is relevant to both the fourth and fifth steps of the analysis.

5 At step four, the Commissioner considers whether, in view of the claimant's 6 RFC, the claimant is capable of performing work that he or she has performed in 7 the past (past relevant work). 20 C.F.R. § 404.1520(a)(4)(iv). If the claimant is 8 capable of performing past relevant work, the Commissioner must find that the 9 claimant is not disabled. 20 C.F.R. § 404.1520(f). If the claimant is incapable of 10 performing such work, the analysis proceeds to step five.

11 At step five, the Commissioner considers whether, in view of the claimant's 12 RFC, the claimant is capable of performing other work in the national economy.
13 20 C.F.R. § 404.1520(a)(4)(v). In making this determination, the Commissioner 14 must also consider vocational factors such as the claimant's age, education, and 15 past work experience. 20 C.F.R. § 404.1520(a)(4)(v). If the claimant is capable of 16 adjusting to other work, the Commissioner must find that the claimant is not 17 disabled. 20 C.F.R. § 404.1520(g)(1). If the claimant is not capable of adjusting to 18 other work, the analysis concludes with a finding that the claimant is disabled and 19 is therefore entitled to benefits. 20 C.F.R. § 404.1520(g)(1).

1 The claimant bears the burden of proof at steps one through four above.
2 Tackett v. Apfel, 180 F.3d 1094, 1098 (9th Cir. 1999). If the analysis proceeds to 3 step five, the burden shifts to the Commissioner to establish that 1) the claimant is 4 capable of performing other work; and 2) such work “exists in significant numbers
5 in the national economy.” 20 C.F.R. § 404.1560(c)(2); Beltran v. Astrue, 700 F.3d
6 386, 389 (9th Cir. 2012).

7 ALJ’S FINDINGS

8 On November 24, 2015, Plaintiff applied for Title II disability insurance 9 benefits alleging a disability onset date of August 19, 2014.<sup>2</sup> Tr. 249-55. The 10 application was denied initially and on reconsideration. Tr. 165-71, 173-78.
11 Plaintiff appeared before an administrative law judge (ALJ) on July 9, 2018. Tr.

12 _____
13 <sup>2</sup> Plaintiff applied for Title II disability insurance benefits on January 9, 2013 and 14 for Title XVI supplemental security income benefits on January 25, 2013, alleging 15 a disability onset date of November 22, 2012. Tr. 134. The applications were 16 denied initially and on reconsideration. Id. Plaintiff appeared at a hearing before 17 an ALJ on July 14, 2014. Id. On August 18, 2014, the ALJ denied Plaintiff’s 18 claims. Id. On October 30, 2015, the Appeals Council denied review. Tr. 135.
19 On January 25, 2017, this Court denied Plaintiff’s motion for summary judgment.
20 Tr. 128-54.

1 36-74. At the administrative hearing, Plaintiff amended his alleged onset date to 2 November 1, 2016. Tr. 15, 42. On August 30, 2018, the ALJ denied Plaintiff's 3 claim. Tr. 12-32.

4 At step one of the sequential evaluation process, the ALJ found that Plaintiff 5 had not engaged in substantial gainful activity since August 19, 2014, his alleged 6 disability onset date.<sup>3</sup> Tr. 18. At step two, the ALJ found that Plaintiff had the 7 following severe impairments: obstructive sleep apnea, depressive disorder, 8 migraines/headaches, status post left knee replacement, obesity, deep vein 9 thrombosis, osteoarthritis of right upper extremity, arthritis right knee, and vision 10 disorder. Tr. 18.

11 At step three, the ALJ found that Plaintiff did not have an impairment or 12 combination of impairments that met or medically equaled the severity of a listed 13 impairment. Tr. 19. The ALJ then concluded that Plaintiff had the RFC to 14 perform sedentary work with the following limitations:

15 [Plaintiff is] capable of engaging in unskilled, repetitive, routine tasks 16 in two hour increments; occasional stooping and crouching; no 17 squatting, crawling, kneeling, or climbing ramps, stairs, ropes, 18 ladders, scaffolds; off task at work 10% of the time but still meeting the minimum production requirements of the job; absent from work 1.5 days a month; frequent handling and fingering; no balancing, working at heights, driving, ambulating on uneven surfaces, or

20 <sup>3</sup> At step one, the ALJ referred to Plaintiff's original disability onset date.

1 working in proximity to hazardous conditions; and no working on 2 computers.

3 Tr. 21.

4 At step four, the ALJ found that Plaintiff was unable to perform any past 5 relevant work. Tr. 25. At step five, the ALJ found that, considering Plaintiff's 6 age, education, work experience, RFC, and testimony from the vocational expert, 7 there were jobs that existed in significant numbers in the national economy that 8 Plaintiff could perform, such as touch up screener, table worker, and order clerk.
9 Tr. 26. Therefore, the ALJ concluded that Plaintiff was not under a disability, as 10 defined in the Social Security Act, from the amended alleged onset date of 11 November 1, 2016, through the date last insured of March 31, 2018. Tr. 26.

12 On August 29, 2019, the Appeals Council denied review of the ALJ's 13 decision, Tr. 1-6, making the ALJ's decision the Commissioner's final decision for 14 purposes of judicial review. See 42 U.S.C. § 1383(c)(3).

15 ISSUES

16 Plaintiff seeks judicial review of the Commissioner's final decision denying 17 him disability insurance benefits under Title II of the Social Security Act. Plaintiff 18 raises the following issues for review:

- 1 1. Whether the ALJ properly developed the record;<sup>4</sup>
- 2 2. Whether the ALJ properly evaluated Plaintiff's symptom claims;
- 3 3. Whether the ALJ properly evaluated the medical opinion evidence;
- 4 4. Whether the ALJ properly evaluated lay witness evidence; and
- 5 5. Whether the ALJ conducted a proper step-five analysis.

6 ECF No. 14 at 7, 11-12.

7 DISCUSSION

8 A. Record Development

9 Plaintiff argues that the ALJ failed to fully develop the record. ECF No. 14 10 at 11-12. A claimant has a duty to submit or inform the ALJ about any written 11 evidence no later than five business days before the hearing. 20 § C.F.R.
12 404.935(a). If the claimant misses the deadline, the ALJ must accept the untimely 13 evidence if the ALJ has not yet issued a decision and one of the following 14 exceptions applies:

15
16
17
18 <sup>4</sup> Plaintiff combined the arguments regarding the evaluation of medical opinion 19 evidence and the ALJ's development of the record. For clarity, the Court 20 addresses the arguments separately.

- 1) A Social Security Administration (Administration) action misled the claimant;
- 2) The claimant's physical, mental, educational, or linguistic limitation(s) prevented the claimant from informing the Administration about or submitting the evidence earlier; or
- 3) Some other unusual, unexpected, or unavoidable circumstances beyond the claimant's control prevented them from informing the Administration about or submitting the evidence earlier. Examples include, but are not limited to, serious illness, death or serious illness in immediate family, or the claimant actively and diligently sought evidence from a source and the evidence was not received or was received less than five business days prior to the hearing.

20 § C.F.R. 404.935(b).

Social Security Ruling (SSR) 17-4p further explains that representatives have a duty to act with reasonable promptness to help obtain information and evidence. SSR 17-4p, 2017 WL 4736894, at *2. Representatives are expected to submit or inform the Administration about evidence as soon as they obtain or become aware of the evidence. Id. Representatives are expected to submit the evidence unless they show that, despite good faith efforts, the representative could not obtain the evidence. Id., at *1-2.

Further, the ALJ has an independent duty to fully and fairly develop a record in order to make a fair determination as to disability, even where, as here, the claimant is represented by counsel. Celaya v. Halter, 332 F.3d 1177, 1183 (9th Cir. 2003); see also Tonapetyan v. Halter, 242 F.3d 1144, 1150 (9th Cir. 2001); Crane v. Shalala, 76 F.3d 251, 255 (9th Cir. 1996). The ALJ will assist in

1 developing the record and may request existing evidence from a medical 2 source/entity if the Plaintiff informed the ALJ of the evidence no later than five 3 business days before the hearing, or if the claimant informed the ALJ of the 4 evidence after the deadline but one of the circumstances listed in 20 C.F.R. § 5 404.935(b) applies. SSR 17-4p, 2017 WL 4736894, at *5. If the ALJ finds 6 Plaintiff met the requirements of 20 C.F.R. § 404.935 and the Plaintiff needs 7 assistance obtaining the records, the ALJ will make an initial request for the 8 evidence and will send one follow-up 10 to 20 calendar days after the initial 9 request, if the evidence has not been received. Id. “Ambiguous evidence, or the 10 ALJ’s own finding that the record is inadequate to allow for proper evaluation of 11 the evidence, triggers the ALJ’s duty to ‘conduct an appropriate inquiry.’” See 12 Tonapetyan, 242 F.3d at 1150 (quoting Smolen v. Chater, 80 F.3d 1273, 1288 (9th 13 Cir. 1996)).

14 1. Additional Written Evidence

15 Plaintiff contends that the ALJ erred by failing to admit additional written 16 evidence into the record. ECF No. 14 at 11-12. At the administrative hearing, the 17 ALJ noted that a document was submitted less than five days prior to the hearing.
18 Tr. 39. Plaintiff’s counsel told the ALJ that they “did not know that [the medical 19 provider] was going to be able to fill it out and that’s why we never let you know 20 about it until the doctor actually lead to it last Thursday...” Tr. 39. The ALJ

1 declined to admit the written evidence, finding that Plaintiff was represented and 2 there was no indication that any action by the Social Security Administration 3 misled Plaintiff or his counsel, there was no indication that Plaintiff's physical, 4 mental, educational, or linguistic limitations prevented him or his counsel from 5 informing the ALJ about or submitting the evidence earlier, or that any unusual, 6 unexpected, or unavoidable circumstance beyond their control prevented them
7 from informing the ALJ about or submitting the evidence earlier. Tr. 15-16; see 20 8 § C.F.R. 404.935(b). Plaintiff's explanation at the hearing as to why the ALJ was 9 not told about the additional evidence five days before the hearing was that 10 Plaintiff's counsel did not know whether the medical provider was going to be able 11 to fill out the document. Tr. 39. Plaintiff now argues that the evidence did not 12 exist five days before the hearing, but he has not offered an explanation as to why 13 the medical opinion could not be obtained from the doctor at an earlier date. The 14 ALJ's finding that Plaintiff failed to meet the requirements of 20 CFR 404.935(b) 15 is supported by substantial evidence.

16 2. Medical Expert Testimony

17 Plaintiff contends that the ALJ failed in his duty to fully and fairly develop 18 the record by declining to obtain medical expert testimony from an 19 ophthalmologist upon Plaintiff's attorney's request to determine the extent of his 20 vision problems. ECF No. 14 at 11-12. However, Plaintiff's attorney's mere 1 request for a medical expert does not trigger the ALJ's duty to develop the record.

2 Mayes v. Massanari, 276 F.3d 453, 459-60 (9th Cir. 2001) ("An ALJ's duty to 3 develop the record further is triggered only when there is ambiguous evidence or 4 when the record is inadequate to allow for proper evaluation of the evidence.") 5 (emphasis added). Plaintiff fails to identify any ambiguity in the record to trigger 6 the ALJ's duty to develop the record related to Plaintiff's vision impairment. ECF
7 No. 14 at 11-12. Rather, the ALJ noted that Plaintiff had a history of vision 8 problems, Tr. 44, 54-58, 772, but several examinations indicated the absence of 9 such problems, including blurred vision and double vision, Tr. 812, 960, 970, 979.
10 Tr. 22. The ALJ observed that vision problems were not listed among Plaintiff's 11 11 chief complaints during his consultative examination. Tr. 22 (citing Tr. 416).
12 Further, the ALJ highlighted that although Plaintiff wore corrective lenses, the 13 medical records did not contain an indication of significant deficits and Plaintiff 14 was able to see well enough to drive. Tr. 22 (citing Tr. 44, 315). Moreover, 15 Janessa Hartman, OD, a developmental optometrist, examined Plaintiff and opined
16 that because of Plaintiff's poor eye tracking, depth perception, and binocular 17 ability, there was a "mild safety risk of [Plaintiff] making poor spatial judgments, 18 becoming injured when playing sports, having difficulty reading road/warning 19 signs quickly and efficiently, and judging distances poorly when driving." Tr. 574.
20 The ALJ noted that the record contained evidence that Plaintiff was able to drive.

Tr. 21-22, 43-44, 315. The record also contained evidence that Plaintiff was able to read and spend time on the computer. Tr. 308, 566. Based on this record, the ALJ formulated an RFC that limited Plaintiff to work that involved no climbing ramps, stairs, ropes, ladders, or scaffolds, no balancing, no working at heights, no driving, no ambulating on uneven surfaces, no working in proximity to hazardous conditions, and no working on computers. Tr. 21. Accordingly, the record was not ambiguous as to the extent of Plaintiff's vision problems. The ALJ had no duty to develop the record on this issue.

B. Plaintiff's Symptom Claims

Plaintiff faults the ALJ for failing to rely on clear and convincing reasons in discrediting his symptom claims. ECF No. 14 at 12-16. An ALJ engages in a two-step analysis to determine whether to discount a claimant's testimony regarding subjective symptoms. Social Security Ruling (SSR) 16-3p, 2016 WL 1119029, at *2. "First, the ALJ must determine whether there is objective medical evidence of an underlying impairment which could reasonably be expected to produce the pain or other symptoms alleged." Molina, 674 F.3d at 1112 (quotation marks omitted). "The claimant is not required to show that [the claimant's] impairment could reasonably be expected to cause the severity of the symptom [the claimant] has alleged; [the claimant] need only show that it could reasonably have caused some degree of the symptom." Vasquez v. Astrue, 572 F.3d 586, 591 (9th Cir. 2009).

1 Second, “[i]f the claimant meets the first test and there is no evidence of 2 malingering, the ALJ can only reject the claimant’s testimony about the severity of 3 the symptoms if [the ALJ] gives ‘specific, clear and convincing reasons’ for the 4 rejection.” Ghanim v. Colvin, 763 F.3d 1154, 1163 (9th Cir. 2014) (citations 5 omitted). General findings are insufficient; rather, the ALJ must identify what 6 symptom claims are being discounted and what evidence undermines these claims.
7 Id. (quoting Lester v. Chater, 81 F.3d 821, 834 (9th 1996); Thomas v. Barnhart, 8 278 F.3d 947, 958 (9th Cir. 2002) (requiring the ALJ to sufficiently explain why it 9 discounted claimant’s symptom claims)). “The clear and convincing [evidence] 10 standard is the most demanding required in Social Security cases.” Garrison v.
11 Colvin, 759 F.3d 995, 1015 (9th Cir. 2014) (quoting Moore v. Comm’r of Soc. Sec.
12 Admin., 278 F.3d 920, 924 (9th Cir. 2002)).

13 Factors to be considered in evaluating the intensity, persistence, and limiting 14 effects of a claimant’s symptoms include: 1) daily activities; 2) the location, 15 duration, frequency, and intensity of pain or other symptoms; 3) factors that 16 precipitate and aggravate the symptoms; 4) the type, dosage, effectiveness, and 17 side effects of any medication an individual takes or has taken to alleviate pain or 18 other symptoms; 5) treatment, other than medication, an individual receives or has 19 received for relief of pain or other symptoms; 6) any measures other than treatment 20 an individual uses or has used to relieve pain or other symptoms; and 7) any other

1 factors concerning an individual's functional limitations and restrictions due to 2 pain or other symptoms. SSR 16-3p, 2016 WL 1119029, at *7; 20 C.F.R. § 3 404.1529(c). The ALJ is instructed to "consider all of the evidence in an 4 individual's record," to "determine how symptoms limit ability to perform work-5 related activities." SSR 16-3p, 2016 WL 1119029, at *2.

6 The ALJ found that Plaintiff's medically determinable impairments could 7 reasonably be expected to cause the alleged symptoms, but that Plaintiff's 8 statements concerning the intensity, persistence, and limiting effects of his 9 symptoms were not entirely consistent with the evidence. Tr. 22.

10 1. Inconsistent with Objective Medical Evidence

11 The ALJ found that Plaintiff's symptom complaints were inconsistent with 12 the objective medical evidence. Tr. 22-23. An ALJ may not discredit a claimant's 13 symptom testimony and deny benefits solely because the degree of the symptoms 14 alleged is not supported by the objective medical evidence. Rollins v. Massanari, 15 261 F.3d 853, 857 (9th Cir. 2001); Bunnell v. Sullivan, 947 F.2d 341, 346-47 (9th 16 Cir. 1991). However, the objective medical evidence is a relevant factor, along 17 with the medical source's information about the claimant's pain or other 18 symptoms, in determining the severity of a claimant's symptoms and their 19 disabling effects. Rollins, 261 F.3d at 857; 20 C.F.R. § 404.1529(c)(2).
20

1 Here, the ALJ discussed Plaintiff's alleged physical and mental symptoms 2 and conditions that caused him to be unable to work, such as his eyes crossing and 3 an inability to read if he watches a computer screen, an inability to stand or sit for 4 extended periods of time without lower extremity problems that require elevating 5 and icing his leg for 10 to 20 minutes, migraine headaches severe enough to 6 preclude activity, and depression. Tr. 16, 22 (citing Tr. 54-60). The ALJ noted 7 that Plaintiff alleged his impairments caused difficulties with seeing, standing, 8 bending, kneeling, using his hands, understanding, following instructions, 9 remembering, completing tasks, and concentration. Tr. 22 (citing Tr. 317).
10 However, the ALJ found that Plaintiff's physical symptom complaints were 11 inconsistent with the objective medical evidence in the record. Tr. 22-23; see, e.g., 12 Tr. 395, 412, 416, 443, 447, 450, 488, 494, 585, 591-92, 595, 765, 769, 820
13 (Plaintiff routinely demonstrated no distress during medical appointments); Tr. 44, 14 54-58, 772, 812, 960, 970, 979 (although Plaintiff had a history of vision problems, 15 several examinations indicated the absence of such problems, including blurred 16 vision and double vision); Tr. 416 (February 7, 2016: at his consultative 17 examination, the examiner listed Plaintiff's 11 chief complaints and vision, 18 obesity, and deep vein thrombosis went unmentioned); Tr. 44, 315 (although 19 Plaintiff wore corrective lenses, the medical records contained no indication of 20 significant deficits and he was able to see well enough to drive). Further, the ALJ

1 found that Plaintiff's treatment records reflected mostly normal musculoskeletal 2 and cardiovascular findings. Tr. 22-23; see, e.g., Tr. 395 (January 28, 2015: upon 3 examination Plaintiff had normal cardiovascular findings and no clubbing, 4 cyanosis, or edema in his extremities); Tr. 443 (March 23, 2016: physical 5 examination revealed normal cardiovascular findings and Plaintiff's extremities 6 were normal); Tr. 598-99 (December 21, 2016: upon examination Plaintiff had 7 normal cardiovascular findings; Plaintiff's lumbar spine showed central 8 lumbosacral tenderness, normal stability and strength, painful right straight leg 9 test; examination of his hips was normal; Plaintiff had a limp on his left side and 10 his medial joint was "exquisitely sensitive"); Tr. 488 (July 14, 2017: physical 11 examination revealed normal cardiovascular and musculoskeletal findings); Tr.
12 504 (August 17, 2015: examination showed a semi-rigid flexion deformity at the 13 DIPJ of Plaintiff's third toe noted right); Tr. 591 (September 7, 2017: physical 14 examination revealed normal cardiovascular and musculoskeletal findings); Tr.
15 585, 789-90 (February 21, 2018: Plaintiff's left knee replacement surgery appeared 16 to have been successful); Tr. 812-13 (March 3, 2018: Plaintiff was tachycardic;
17 Plaintiff had normal back and upper extremity findings, but he exhibited 18 tenderness in his left calf).

19 The ALJ also found that Plaintiff's mental health allegations were 20 inconsistent with the objective medical evidence in the record, as his treatment

1 records reflected mostly normal psychological and neurological findings with 2 occasional anxiety and confusion. Tr. 23, see, e.g., Tr. 395 (January 28, 2015:
3 upon examination Plaintiff was alert and oriented times three with no focal 4 deficits; his affect was normal, he had good eye contact, he was oriented to person, 5 place, and time, and he exhibited normal speech); Tr. 504 (August 17, 2015:
6 Plaintiff denied depression, disorientation, and memory loss); Tr. 436 (November 7 30, 2015: Plaintiff was alert and oriented, pleasant and cooperative, he had normal 8 speech and good eye contact, he reported an improved mood and his affect was 9 broad and responsive; Plaintiff's thought process was linear and goal directed, his 10 thought content was negative for delusions or hallucinations; he exhibited adequate 11 attention and fair insight and judgment); Tr. 419 (February 7, 2016: at Plaintiff's 12 consultative examination, his affect was somewhat discouraged and nervous, but 13 largely calm, pleasant, and at times happy; Plaintiff was fully oriented; he had 14 good persistence in attempting tasks and was able to recognize failure when he 15 made mistakes on digit span); Tr. 458, 488, 494 (February 12, 2015, November 18, 16 2016, July 14, 2017: Plaintiff was alert and oriented times three and his mood and 17 affect were normal); Tr. 601 (February 15, 2017: Plaintiff was fully oriented, had 18 appropriate mood and affect, and normal insight and judgment); Tr. 592 (June 27, 19 2017: Plaintiff had a normal affect, good eye contact, he was oriented to person, 20 place, and time, and he had normal speech); Tr. 942 (August 29, 2017: upon

1 mental status examination Plaintiff was cooperative and pleasant, he maintained 2 appropriate eye contact, he had normal speech, intact recent and remote memory, 3 and logical thought process; Plaintiff described his mood as “okay,” and his affect 4 was congruent); Tr. 795 (September 25, 2017: Plaintiff had normal affect); Tr. 761, 5 765, 772 (June 13, 2017, July 18, 2017, July 27, 2017: upon mental status 6 examination Plaintiff was pleasant and cooperative, his recent and remote memory 7 was intact, he had sufficient attention span, concentration, language, and fund of 8 knowledge, and his speech was clear in tone, volume, and rate).

9 Plaintiff argues that the ALJ’s findings are not supported by the record, and 10 instead, the objective findings are consistent with his allegations. ECF No. 14 at 11 13-15; see, e.g., Tr. 485, 618, 642, 650, 653, 675, 678, 696, 699, 724, 729 (Plaintiff 12 was frequently observed to have antalgic gait); Tr. 485, 585, 597, 601, 603, 618-13 19, 665, 685, 696, 700, 729, 795, 813 (Plaintiff regularly had tenderness to 14 palpation); Tr. 618-19, 638 (Plaintiff had periods of swelling); Tr. 539, 548, 601, 15 603, 618, 644, 696 (Plaintiff was found to have decreased range of motion); Tr.
16 632, 634, 644, 650, 820 (Plaintiff had decreased range of motion after his surgery 17 in February 2018); Tr. 585, 636, 642, 644, 646, 650, 678, 696, 919, 925 (providers 18 noted that Plaintiff needed an assistive device to ambulate); Tr. 486 (imaging
19 showed moderately severe degenerative narrowing in Plaintiff’s medial 20 compartment and moderate spurring in his patellofemoral joint); Tr. 613 (an MRI

1 of Plaintiff's left knee in March 2017 showed a horizontal tear in the body and 2 posterior horn of the medial meniscus, a longitudinal tear in the posterior horn of 3 the lateral meniscus, severe cartilage loss at the upper lateral femoral trochlea, 4 moderate to severe articular cartilage loss in the medial compartment with surface 5 fibrillation, mild distal quadriceps tendinosis, a ganglion cyst at the lateral 6 popliteus muscle, and joint fluid outlines in an intra-articular osteochondral body at 7 the anterior central line); Tr. 806 (imaging showed bilateral nonspecific 8 enthesophytes of the iliac bones and ischial tuberosities, and minimal spurring of 9 the bilateral acetabulum). Where evidence is subject to more than one rational 10 interpretation, the ALJ's conclusion will be upheld. Burch v. Barnhart, 400 F.3d 11 676, 679 (9th Cir. 2005). The Court will only disturb the ALJ's findings if they are 12 not supported by substantial evidence. Hill, 698 F.3d at 1158. Here, the ALJ's 13 conclusion remains supported by substantial evidence despite the additional 14 evidence identified by Plaintiff. The ALJ accounted for Plaintiff's physical 15 symptom complaints in the RFC by limiting him to sedentary work with additional 16 physical and mental limitations. Tr. 21. The ALJ's finding was a clear and 17 convincing reason, in conjunction with Plaintiff's improvement with treatment, see 18 infra, to discount Plaintiff's symptom complaints.

1           2. Improvement with Treatment

2           The ALJ found that Plaintiff's symptom testimony was inconsistent with the 3 level of improvement he showed following his left knee replacement surgery. Tr.
4 23. The effectiveness of treatment is a relevant factor in determining the severity 5 of a claimant's symptoms. 20 C.F.R. § 404.1529(c)(3); see Warre v. Comm'r of 6 Soc. Sec. Admin., 439 F.3d 1001, 1006 (9th Cir. 2006) (conditions effectively 7 controlled with medication are not disabling for purposes of determining eligibility 8 for benefits) (internal citations omitted); see also Tommasetti v. Astrue, 533 F.3d 9 1035, 1040 (9th Cir. 2008) (a favorable response to treatment can undermine a 10 claimant's complaints of debilitating pain or other severe limitations).

11           Here, the ALJ concluded that Plaintiff's left knee replacement surgery 12 appeared to have been successful. Tr. 23. On February 21, 2018, Plaintiff 13 underwent surgery to replace his left knee. Tr. 585. Upon discharge, it was noted 14 that Plaintiff was "[d]oing well." Tr. 790. On April 11, 2018, physical therapy 15 treatment notes showed that although Plaintiff felt that he was behind on his total 16 knee replacement progress, his improvement was actually "on target." Tr. 634.
17 On this record, the ALJ reasonably determined that Plaintiff's allegations of 18 debilitating knee pain were not consistent with the evidence of record due to 19 Plaintiff's improvement after left knee replacement surgery. Tr. 23.

1 Plaintiff challenges the ALJ's conclusion by arguing that he had decreased
2 range of motion after his left knee replacement surgery. ECF No. 14 at 13-14
3 (citing Tr. 632, 634, 644, 650, 820). Plaintiff also asserts that on April 11, 2018, 4 seven weeks after his total knee replacement surgery, Plaintiff reported constant 5 dull and aching pain that was worsened by standing and it was noted that he had 6 minimal functionality despite the use of pain medications. ECF No. 14 at 6 (citing 7 Tr. 614). However, on that same date, Plaintiff's physical therapy treatment notes
8 reported that he was "on target" with his recovery. Tr. 634. The treatment notes 9 cited by Plaintiff from April 18, 2018, show that he although he "had a lot of 10 comorbidities affecting his TKA progress" such as medication issues, blood clots, 11 and migraine issues, Plaintiff's knee extension range of motion was improving, he 12 had reduced swelling, and his flexion range of motion had improved. Tr. 632-33.
13 The treatment notes cited by Plaintiff from March 26, 2018, demonstrate that he 14 reported feeling "like he may have started to [turn] the corner," he was not using 15 his walker, he continued to have a standing tolerance of about 15 minutes where he 16 would get sweaty and nauseated secondary to the amount of pain, but he was 17 walking better than he had been walking. Tr. 644. Where the ALJ's interpretation 18 of the record is reasonable as it is here, it should not be second-guessed. Rollins, 19 261 F.3d at 857. Here, the ALJ reasonably concluded that the record showed 20 Plaintiff's left knee impairment improved after surgery in February 2018 and was 1 inconsistent with the level of impairment Plaintiff alleged. Tr. 23. Further, as 2 discussed supra, the ALJ accounted for Plaintiff's physical symptom complaints in 3 the RFC by limiting him to sedentary work with additional physical limitations, 4 including occasional stooping and crouching, no squatting, crawling, kneeling, or 5 climbing ramps, stairs, ropes, ladders, or scaffolds, and no balancing, working at 6 heights, driving, ambulating on uneven surfaces, or working in proximity to 7 hazardous conditions. Tr. 21. This was a clear and convincing reason to discredit 8 Plaintiff's subjective symptom complaints.

9 3. Inconsistent with Activities

10 The ALJ found that Plaintiff's activities were inconsistent with the level of 11 impairment Plaintiff alleged. Tr. 22-24. An ALJ may consider a claimant's 12 activities that undermine reported symptoms. Rollins, 261 F.3d at 857. If a 13 claimant can spend a substantial part of the day engaged in pursuits involving the 14 performance of exertional or nonexertional functions, the ALJ may find these 15 activities inconsistent with the reported disabling symptoms. Fair v. Bowen, 885 16 F.2d 597, 603 (9th Cir. 1989); Molina, 674 F.3d at 1113. "While a claimant need 17 not vegetate in a dark room in order to be eligible for benefits, the ALJ may 18 discount a claimant's symptom claims when the claimant reports participation in 19 everyday activities indicating capacities that are transferable to a work setting" or 20

1 when activities “contradict claims of a totally debilitating impairment.” Molina, 2 674 F.3d at 1112-13.

3 Here, the ALJ indicated that Plaintiff’s ability to assist his disabled wife, 4 including occasionally bathing her and driving her to appointments, was 5 inconsistent with his allegations of disabling physical and mental impairments. Tr.
6 23. In reaching this conclusion, the ALJ cited Plaintiff’s hearing testimony. Id.
7 However, a review of Plaintiff’s hearing testimony shows that he described having 8 to bathe his wife “sometimes,” and “not too often,” as she was “usually pretty 9 independent.” Tr. 46. He also testified that their children or his wife’s mother 10 “will help out there quite a bit where I can’t fill in” with “the feeding and stuff.” 11 Id. Plaintiff testified that his wife’s mother usually took her to appointments and 12 although he had taken her to appointments in the past, the last time that he took her 13 to an appointment himself was “probably last year.” Id. He testified that he 14 typically did not do any of the driving, but when he has had to drive his wife to 15 appointments in the past, he would close his right eye and drive with his left eye.
16 Tr. 47. The ALJ also determined that Plaintiff’s testimony about his ability to 17 travel internationally without incident was inconsistent with his allegations of 18 disabling mental impairments. Tr. 23. Plaintiff testified that three weeks before 19 the hearing he traveled to Canada for a few days with his wife, his mother-in-law, 20 and his son. Tr. 49. His mother-in-law drove, they took a bus and a ferry, and he

1 toured some gardens while being pushed in a wheelchair. Id. The ALJ does not 2 explain how these occasional activities are inconsistent with his symptom claims.
3 See Reddick v. Chater, 157 F.3d 715, 721-22 (9th Cir. 1998) (claimant's ability to 4 engage in activities that were sporadic and punctuated with rest, including 5 housework, occasional weekend trips, and some exercise, did not support a finding 6 that the claimant could engage in regular work activities). The ALJ's conclusion 7 that Plaintiff's activities were inconsistent with her alleged difficulty being around 8 many people is not supported by substantial evidence.

9       This error is harmless because the ALJ identified other specific, clear, and 10 convincing reasons to discount Plaintiff's symptom claims. See Carmickle v.
11 Comm'r of Soc. Sec. Admin., 533 F.3d 1155, 1162-63 (9th Cir. 2008); Molina, 674 12 F.3d at 1115 ("[S]everal of our cases have held that an ALJ's error was harmless
13 where the ALJ provided one or more invalid reasons for disbelieving a claimant's 14 testimony, but also provided valid reasons that were supported by the record."); 15 Batson v. Comm'r of Soc. Sec. Admin., 359 F.3d 1190, 1197 (9th Cir. 2004)
16 (holding that any error the ALJ committed in asserting one impermissible reason 17 for claimant's lack of credibility did not negate the validity of the ALJ's ultimate 18 conclusion that the claimant's testimony was not credible).

1       C. Medical Opinion Evidence

2       Plaintiff challenges the ALJ's evaluation of the medical opinion of Duane 3 Teerink, D.O. ECF No. 14 at 9-12.

4       There are three types of physicians: "(1) those who treat the claimant 5 (treating physicians); (2) those who examine but do not treat the claimant 6 (examining physicians); and (3) those who neither examine nor treat the claimant 7 [but who review the claimant's file] (nonexamining [or reviewing] physicians)." Holohan v. Massanari, 246 F.3d 1195, 1201-02 (9th Cir. 2001) (citations omitted).
8 Generally, a treating physician's opinion carries more weight than an examining 9 physician's opinion, and an examining physician's opinion carries more weight 10 than a reviewing physician's opinion. Id. at 1202. "In addition, the regulations 11 give more weight to opinions that are explained than to those that are not, and to 12 the opinions of specialists concerning matters relating to their specialty over that of 13 nonspecialists." Id. (citations omitted).

14       If a treating or examining physician's opinion is uncontradicted, the ALJ 15 may reject it only by offering "clear and convincing reasons that are supported by 16 substantial evidence." Bayliss v. Barnhart, 427 F.3d 1211, 1216 (9th Cir. 2005).
17 "However, the ALJ need not accept the opinion of any physician, including a 18 treating physician, if that opinion is brief, conclusory, and inadequately supported 19 by clinical findings." Bray v. Comm'r of Soc. Sec. Admin., 554 F.3d 1219, 1228 20

1 (9th Cir. 2009) (internal quotation marks and brackets omitted). “If a treating or 2 examining doctor’s opinion is contradicted by another doctor’s opinion, an ALJ 3 may only reject it by providing specific and legitimate reasons that are supported 4 by substantial evidence.” Bayliss, 427 F.3d at 1216 (citing Lester, 81 F.3d at 830– 5 31. The opinion of a nonexamining physician may serve as substantial evidence if 6 it is supported by other independent evidence in the record. Andrews v. Shalala, 7 53 F.3d 1035, 1041 (9th Cir. 1995).

8 On January 9, 2018, Dr. Teerink completed a medical report for Plaintiff.
9 Tr. 496-98. Dr. Teerink diagnosed Plaintiff with osteoarthritis, major depression, 10 migraines, chronic constipation, and chronic pain syndrome. Tr. 496. He noted 11 that Plaintiff had to lie down three times per day for a half an hour each time. Tr.
12 496. Dr. Teerink opined that work on a regular and continuous basis could cause 13 Plaintiff’s condition to deteriorate. Tr. 497. He indicated that Plaintiff would miss 14 more than four days of work each month. Tr. 497. Dr. Teerink concluded that 15 Plaintiff was able to perform a range of sedentary work with additional limitations.
16 Tr. 496-97. He also opined that with physical therapy and behavioral 17 modifications for pain management, Plaintiff’s function could improve. Tr. 497.
18 He noted that Plaintiff’s limitations had existed since at least 2012. Tr. 498.

1 The ALJ gave Dr. Teerink's opinion some weight.<sup>5</sup> Tr. 23. Because Dr.
2 Teerink's opinion was contradicted by the nonexamining opinions of Kathy Faas, 3 SDM, Tr. 111-12, and Gordon Hale, M.D., Tr. 124-25, the ALJ was required to 4 provide specific and legitimate reasons for discounting Dr. Teerink's opinion.
5 Bayliss, 427 F.3d at 1216.

6 The ALJ discounted Dr. Teerink's opinion because it appeared to rely 7 heavily on Plaintiff's subjective pain complaints and limitations. Tr. 23. A 8 physician's opinion may be rejected if it is based on a claimant's properly 9 discounted complaints. Tonapetyan, 242 F.3d at 1149; Morgan v. Comm'r of Soc.
10 Sec. Admin., 169 F.3d 595, 602 (9th Cir. 1999); Fair, 885 F.2d at 605. However, 11 when an opinion is not more heavily based on a patient's discounted self-reports 12 than on clinical observations, there is no evidentiary basis for rejecting the opinion.
13 Ghanim, 763 F.3d at 1162; Ryan v. Comm'r of Soc. Sec., 528 F.3d 1194, 1199-14 1200 (9th Cir. 2008). As discussed supra, Plaintiff's symptom complaints were 15 properly discounted. The ALJ noted that Dr. Teerink's opinion that Plaintiff 16 would miss more than four days of work each month was based on Plaintiff's

18 <sup>5</sup> The ALJ specified that he gave some weight to Dr. Teerink's opinion in 19 concluding that Plaintiff was limited to sedentary work. Tr. 23.
20

1 assertion that he would miss two to three days a week. Tr. 23; see Tr. 497 (Dr.
2 Teerink wrote that Plaintiff would miss work two to three times per week “per 3 patient report”). The ALJ also noted that although Dr. Teerink indicated that 4 Plaintiff had these limitations since 2012, he identified Plaintiff as the source of the 5 statement. Tr. 23; see Tr. 498 (Dr. Teerink wrote “2012 per patient”). Further the 6 ALJ observed that Dr. Teerink opined that work on a regular and continuous basis 7 would cause Plaintiff’s condition to deteriorate, but Dr. Teerink also noted that his 8 conclusion was based on Plaintiff’s asserted pain level that did not match the 9 medical imaging. Tr. 23; see Tr. 497 (Dr. Teerink wrote “He has multifunctional 10 reasons for his chronic pain and his imaging does not match his level of pain, 11 however his perception is that he will worsen without the ability to rest frequently 12 throughout a day”). This was a specific and legitimate reason, supported by 13 substantial evidence, to discount Dr. Teerink’s opinion.

14 D. Lay Opinion Evidence

15 Plaintiff challenges the ALJ’s rejection of the lay witness statements of his 16 wife, Ms. S.<sup>6</sup> ECF No. 14 at 16-17. An ALJ must consider the statement of lay 17
18

---

19 <sup>6</sup> As the undersigned identifies plaintiffs in social security cases by only their first 20 names and the initial of their last names in an effort to protect their privacy, the 1 witnesses in determining whether a claimant is disabled. Stout v. Comm’r, Soc.

2 Sec. Admin., 454 F.3d 1050, 1053 (9th Cir. 2006). Lay witness evidence cannot 3 establish the existence of medically determinable impairments, but lay witness 4 evidence is “competent evidence” as to “how an impairment affects [a claimant's] 5 ability to work.” Id.; 20 C.F.R. § 404.1513; see also Dodrill v. Shalala, 12 F.3d 6 915, 918-19 (9th Cir. 1993) (“[F]riends and family members in a position to 7 observe a claimant’s symptoms and daily activities are competent to testify as to 8 her condition.”). If a lay witness statement is rejected, the ALJ “‘must give 9 reasons that are germane to each witness.’” Nguyen v. Chater, 100 F.3d 1462, 10 1467 (9th Cir. 1996) (citing Dodrill, 12 F.3d at 919).

11 The ALJ considered a third-party function report dated January 19, 2016 12 from Ms. S. and assigned little weight to her statements. Tr. 24, 304-11. Ms. S.
13 reported that Plaintiff was clinically depressed, in constant pain, and was not able 14 to work. Tr. 304. Ms. S. also reported that Plaintiff’s impairments affected his 15 ability to lift, stand, and sit and walk for more than 20 minutes at a time. Id. She 16 reported that Plaintiff would take her to medical appointments, pick up his 17 daughter after school, go to the store, and take their dog for haircuts. Tr. 305, 307.

18 _____
19 undersigned will also identify Plaintiff’s wife by the initial of her last name. See 20 LCivR 5.2(c).

1 Ms. S. reported that Plaintiff had trouble sleeping because he was unable to turn 2 off negative thoughts and his arthritis made it difficult to find a comfortable sleep
3 position. Id. She indicated that Plaintiff would mow the lawn, pull weeds, and do 4 the dishes as they were simpler chores that did not have many steps. Tr. 306. She 5 reported that Plaintiff would drive unless he was tired. Tr. 307. She stated that 6 Plaintiff isolated himself and did not want to do as many family activities, and he 7 would go to Bible Study and Fellowship once a week. Tr. 308. She reported that 8 Plaintiff's impairments affected his ability to lift, bend, walk, sit, kneel, remember, 9 complete tasks, concentrate, understand, follow instructions, and use his hands. Tr.
10 309. The ALJ was required to give germane reasons to discredit this lay witness 11 opinion. Nguyen, 100 F.3d at 1467.

12 First, the ALJ gave little weight to Ms. S.'s opinion because it was provided 13 by an individual without expertise in psychology or medicine. Tr. 24. Although 14 "medical diagnoses are beyond the competence of lay witnesses and therefore do 15 not constitute competent evidence," lay testimony "as to a claimant's symptoms or 16 how an impairment affects ability to work is competent evidence." Nguyen, 100 17 F.3d at 1467 (emphasis in original); see also Dodrill, 12 F.3d at 918-19 ("[F]riends 18 and family members in a position to observe a claimant's symptoms and daily 19 activities are competent to testify as to her condition."). This was not a germane 20 reason to discredit Ms. S.'s opinion.

1 Second, the ALJ gave little weight to Ms. S.'s opinion because, as Plaintiff's 2 wife, she was not a disinterested party in this case. Tr. 24. "The fact that a lay 3 witness is a family member cannot be a ground for rejecting his or her testimony.
4 To the contrary, testimony from lay witnesses who see the claimant every day is of 5 particular value." Smolen, 80 F.3d at 1289 (internal citations omitted). Ms. S.'s 6 relationship to Plaintiff was not a germane reason to discredit her opinion.

7 Finally, the ALJ discounted Ms. S.'s opinion because it was not well 8 supported by the medical evidence. Tr. 24; see, e.g., Tr. 395 (January 28, 2015: 9 Plaintiff was alert and oriented times three with no focal deficits; his affect was 10 normal, he had good eye contact, he was oriented to person, place, and time, and 11 he exhibited normal speech; upon examination Plaintiff had normal cardiovascular 12 findings and no clubbing, cyanosis, or edema in his extremities); Tr. 443 (March 13 23, 2016: physical examination revealed normal cardiovascular findings and 14 Plaintiff's extremities were normal); Tr. 488 (July 14, 2017: physical examination 15 revealed normal cardiovascular and musculoskeletal findings; Plaintiff was alert 16 and oriented times three and his mood and affect were normal); Tr. 504 (August 17 17, 2015: Plaintiff denied depression, disorientation, and memory loss; 18 examination showed a semi-rigid flexion deformity at the DIPJ of the third toe 19 noted right); T. 591 (September 7, 2017: physical examination revealed normal 20 cardiovascular and musculoskeletal findings); Tr. 598-99 (December 21, 2016:

1 upon examination Plaintiff had normal cardiovascular findings; Plaintiff's lumbar 2 spine showed central lumbosacral tenderness, normal stability and strength, painful 3 right straight leg test; examination of his hip was normal; Plaintiff had a limp on 4 his left side and his medial joint was "exquisitely sensitive"); Tr. 812-13 (March 3, 5 2018: Plaintiff was tachycardic; Plaintiff had normal back and upper extremity 6 findings, but he exhibited tenderness in his left calf; examination indicated the 7 absence of blurred vision and double vision). Inconsistency with the medical 8 evidence is a germane reason for rejecting lay witness testimony. See Bayliss, 427
9 F.3d at 1218; Lewis v. Apfel, 236 F.3d 503, 511-12 (9th Cir. 2001) (germane 10 reasons include inconsistency with medical evidence, activities, and reports). The 11 ALJ reasonably concluded that this evidence was inconsistent with the level of 12 impairment reported by Ms. S. Tr. 24. This was a germane reason to discredit her 13 opinion. Although the ALJ erred by asserting improper reasons to reject Ms. S.'s 14 lay witness statements, these errors were harmless given the ALJ's reliance on 15 another germane reason that was supported by substantial evidence. See Molina, 16 674 F.3d at 1115 ("[S]everal of our cases have held that an ALJ's error was 17 harmless where the ALJ provided one or more invalid reasons for disbelieving a 18 claimant's testimony, but also provided valid reasons that were supported by the 19 record."); see also Tommasetti, 533 F.3d at 1038 (an error is harmless when "it is 20

1 clear from the record that the . . . error was inconsequential to the ultimate 2 nondisability determination”).

3 E. Step Five

4 Plaintiff argues that the ALJ failed to meet his burden at step five. ECF No.
5 14 at 17-19; ECF No. 16 at 5-7. “[I]f a claimant establishes an inability to 6 continue [his] past work, the burden shifts to the Commissioner in step five to 7 show that the claimant can perform other substantial gainful work.” Burch, 400 8 F.3d at 679 (citing Swenson v. Sullivan, 876 F.2d 683, 687 (9th Cir. 1989)). At 9 step five, “the ALJ ... examines whether the claimant has the [RFC] ... to perform 10 any other substantial gainful activity in the national economy.” Id. “If the 11 claimant is able to do other work, then the Commissioner must establish that there 12 are a significant number of jobs in the national economy that claimant can do.” 13 Tackett, 180 F.3d at 1099. “There are two ways for the Commissioner to meet the 14 burden of showing that there is other work in ‘significant numbers’ in the national 15 economy that claimant can perform: (1) by the testimony of a [VE], or (2) by 16 reference to the Medical-Vocational Guidelines...” Id. “If the Commissioner 17 meets this burden, the claimant is ‘not disabled’ and therefore not entitled to ...
18 benefits.” Id. (citation and emphasis omitted). “If the Commissioner cannot meet 19 this burden, then the claimant is ‘disabled’ and therefore entitled to ... benefits.”
20 Id. (citation and emphasis omitted).

1 First, Plaintiff argues that the ALJ improperly relied upon an RFC and 2 hypothetical that failed to include all of Plaintiff's limitations. ECF No. 14 at 18.
3 However, the ALJ's RFC need only include those limitations found credible and 4 supported by substantial evidence. Bayliss, 427 F.3d at 1217 ("The hypothetical 5 that the ALJ posed to the VE contained all of the limitations that the ALJ found 6 credible and supported by substantial evidence in the record."). The hypothetical 7 that ultimately serves as the basis for the ALJ's determination, i.e., the hypothetical 8 that is predicated on the ALJ's final RFC assessment, must account for all of the 9 limitations and restrictions of the particular claimant. Bray, 554 F.3d at 1228. "If 10 an ALJ's hypothetical does not reflect all of the claimant's limitations, then the 11 expert's testimony has no evidentiary value to support a finding that the claimant 12 can perform jobs in the national economy." Id. (internal quotation marks omitted).
13 However, the ALJ "is free to accept or reject restrictions in a hypothetical question 14 that are not supported by substantial evidence." Greger v. Barnhart, 464 F.3d 968, 15 973 (9th Cir. 2006). A claimant fails to establish that a step five determination is 16 flawed by simply restating an argument that the ALJ improperly discounted certain 17 evidence, when the record demonstrates the evidence was properly rejected.
18 Stubbs-Danielson v. Astrue, 539 F.3d 1169, 1175–76 (9th Cir. 2008).

19 Plaintiff asserts that the ALJ improperly rejected the opinion of Dr. Teerink, 20 and when the vocational expert was asked about some of these additional

1 limitations, he testified that Plaintiff would be unable to sustain competitive 2 employment. ECF No. 14 at 18 (citing Tr. 70-72). Plaintiff's argument is based 3 entirely on the assumption that the ALJ erred in discrediting Dr. Teerink's medical 4 opinion. See Stubbs-Danielson, 539 F.3d at 1175 (challenge to ALJ's step five 5 findings was unavailing where it "simply restates [claimant's] argument that the 6 ALJ's RFC finding did not account for all her limitations"). For reasons discussed
7 throughout this decision, the ALJ's evaluation of Dr. Teerink's medical opinion 8 was legally sufficient and supported by substantial evidence. Thus, the ALJ did 9 not err in assessing the RFC, and he posed a hypothetical to the vocational expert 10 that incorporated all of the limitations in the ALJ's RFC determination, to which 11 the vocational expert responded that jobs within the national economy existed that 12 Plaintiff could perform. The ALJ properly relied upon this testimony to support 13 the step five determination.

14       Next, Plaintiff contends that the ALJ's identified jobs of touch up screener, 15 table worker, and order clerk are inconsistent with the assessed RFC. ECF No. 14 16 at 19. To ensure consistency, an ALJ must inquire about "an apparent unresolved 17 conflict between [the vocational expert's] evidence and the DOT." SSR 00-4p, 18 2000 WL 1898704, at *2. "For a difference between an expert's testimony and the 19 [DOT's] listings to be fairly characterized as a conflict, it must be obvious or 20 apparent." Gutierrez v. Colvin, 844 F.3d 804, 808 (9th Cir. 2016). Thus, failure to 1 resolve a conflict is only prejudicial if there is an actual conflict or if the vocational 2 expert's explanation is deficient. Massachi v. Astrue, 486 F.3d 1149, 1154 n.19

3 (9th Cir. 2007).

4 Here, the ALJ found that Plaintiff was able to perform the jobs of touch up 5 screener, table worker, and order clerk. Tr. 26. Plaintiff argues that he is 6 precluded from performing these jobs because his RFC limits him to jobs that 7 allow him to be absent from work for one and a half days each month. ECF No. 14 8 at 19 (citing Tr. 21). At the administrative hearing, the vocational expert testified 9 that a hypothetical individual with Plaintiff's RFC, including the limitation to be 10 absent from work for one and a half days each month, would be able to perform the 11 work of a touch up screener, table worker, and order clerk. Tr. 66-67. The ALJ
12 then asked the vocational expert if he relied on anything other than the Dictionary 13 of Occupational Titles and its companion sources to provide his opinions, and 14 specifically inquired about the off-task time and the absenteeism in the RFC. Tr.
15 67. The vocational expert testified that his opinions about the off-task and 16 absenteeism factors were based on his experience as a rehabilitation counselor. Tr.
17 67. After adding to the ALJ's hypothetical, Plaintiff's counsel asked the 18 vocational expert how many days an individual would be able to miss work before 19 it became problematic in the workplace. Tr. 70. Consistent with his earlier 20 testimony, the vocational expert testified that he thought the maximum number of 1 days an employee could miss would “probably” be a day and a half of work. Tr.

2 71. Plaintiff’s counsel then began asking questions about taking unscheduled 3 leave, including getting to work late, leaving early, or being dismissed. Tr. 71. In 4 response to that line of questioning, the vocational expert testified that if someone 5 “were absent on an unscheduled or an unexcused basis probably only about five of 6 those would be tolerated in a 12-month period.” Tr. 71. When questioned again 7 by Plaintiff’s counsel about his testimony that an individual could be absent from 8 work for a day and a half each month, the vocational expert testified, “Well, you 9 would say a day and a half would be pretty much as opposed to, you know, 10 anything older (sic) than that, like, two days would probably not be tolerated.” Tr.
11 71. Based on this record, the ALJ was entitled to rely on the vocational expert’s 12 testimony that Plaintiff was capable of performing the jobs of touch up screener, 13 table worker, and order clerk. Therefore, the ALJ’s step five determination that 14 Plaintiff was not disabled within the meaning of the Social Security Act was proper 15 and supported by substantial evidence.
